INFORMATION ABOUT A UNIVERSITY OF WASHINGTON RESEARCH STUDY

The GAME Study

Assessing the Signal: A Mixed-Methods Pilot Study of GLP-1 Medications for Problem Gambling

What is this study about?

We are conducting this study to better understand how taking a GLP-1 affects people's betting behaviors.

What will you be asked to do?

If you decide to be in this study, you'll be asked to do three things:

1. Answer a few questions online to see if you're eligible. This should take about 5 mintues.
2. Meet with a member of the study team over Zoom to show your ID and GLP-1 prescription or medication label on camera.
3. If you are eligible, you'll be invited to complete a 30-minute survey about gambling urges, thoughts, and behaviors before and after starting a GLP-1. The most sensitive questions asked are about how gambling has affected your life and about your drug use. An example of a sensitive question is, "Has sports betting caused any finincial problems for you or your household?"

Why you might want to participate	Why you might NOT want to participate
• You want to share your experience • You want to help researchers learn more about whether GLP-1's affect people's urge to gamble. • You want to earn a $50 gift card for completing the survey	• You are worried that other people will learn about what you share in the survey. (Please complete the survey in a private place. We will keep your responses confidential). • Answering questions about gambling or drug use might make you feel uncomfortable.

How will we protect the information you provide?

We will protect your confidentiality. We will store your name and other identifiable information separate from the study data. Access to your identifying information will be limited to certain members of the study team and any individuals from the UW or other agencies that may need to audit study records. When we publish the results of this study, we will not use your name. Any identifiers (or links between identifiers and data/specimens) and/or data will be destroyed after the records retention period required by state and/or federal law.

The information that we obtain from you for this study might be used for future studies. We may remove anything that might identify you from the information. If we do so, the information may then be used for future research studies or given to another investigator without getting additional permission from you. It is also possible that in the future we may want to use or share study information/samples that might identify you. If we do, a review board will decide whether or not we need to get additional permission from you.

Other information about this study.

Being in this study is voluntary. This means that you can refuse to sign up. It also means that if you do sign up, you can decide to stop being in the study at any time without penalty.

You will be emailed a $50 gift card for a store of your choice after you complete the online survey.

Some people who complete the survey will be invited to do a longer interview. If this applies to you, we will give you all the information you need to decide whether you want to participate.

We are receiving financial support for this research from a University of Washington's Addictions, Drug & Alcohol Institute Small Grant.

If you have been injured or otherwise harmed by participating in this study, contact a member of the research team by texting 206-543-8311 or emailing gamestudy@uw.edu.

What can you do if you want more information?

Talk to the study team. We are here to help you understand the study. Please ask us any questions you may have, even about things that are not in this document. It is our responsibility to give you the information you need to make a decision and to give you time to think about whether or not you want to sign up.

Talk to someone else. If you want to talk about the study with someone who is not part of the study team, talk about your rights as a research participant, or to report problems or complaints about the study, contact the UW Human Subjects Division.
